1. What major problem or issue is being resolved relevant to Fusarium head blight (scab) and how are you resolving it?

Integrated use of resistant varieties and fungicides to manage FHB and DON. A multi-state Uniform Trial on Integrated Control of FHB was established in 2007, and Kentucky is part of that trial, which involves a uniform protocol being used by all cooperators.

2. List the most important accomplishment and its impact (i.e. how is it being used) to minimize the threat of Fusarium head blight or to reduce mycotoxins. Complete both sections (repeat sections for each major accomplishment):

Accomplishment:

A uniform trial protocol, involving numerous states and wheat classes, was implemented in 2007. In 2010, Kentucky was part of this trial and conducted a study at the University of Kentucky Research and Education Center in Princeton, KY. Data were collected and sent to the Uniform Trial Coordinator, Dr. Pierce Paul, for inclusion in the trial summary report. This report was given during the 2010 USWBSI Forum and was included in the proceedings for the meeting. Results of studies have been incorporated into educational programs on the integrated use of resistance and fungicides to manage FHB/DON. Weather data associated with the study was made available to FHB epidemiologists for use in fine-tuning FHB pre-flowering predictive model for winter wheat.

Impact:

Based on a limited survey of wheat producers during the 2011 UK Winter Wheat Meeting, it is clear that many Kentucky grain producers have adopted integrated FHB management practices as a result of this project.

Include below a list of the publications, presentations, peer-reviewed articles, and non-peer reviewed articles written about your work that resulted from all of the projects included in the grant. Please reference each item using an accepted journal format. If you need more space, continue the list on the next page.
